Workshop Outline

Working with digital video evidence is a lot like working with a puzzle: the pieces are in your hands, but sometimes you don't know how to put it all together. Codecs, player programs, screen capture utilities, transcoders... all the pieces start piling up! In this class we'll provide you with the skills to put all the pieces together and help keep you focused on the big picture of video analysis.

Digital Video Processing Techniques is a 3-day workshop in which students will discover the technical operations behind digital video evidence. A variety of programs will be explored for common analysis techniques including playback, screen capture, and transcoding of digital video files. Additionally, new and improved workflows for analyzing and enhancing both standard and proprietary video file formats will be discussed including:

- Maintaining a clean, functional computer working environment
- Identifying, managing and prioritizing video codecs
- Utilizing video player programs to extract images and transcode video files
- Screen capturing techniques for video evidence
- Processing techniques that enhance the quality of video evidence
